Changing the way people think about recruitment

Infopeople® is a highly successful Australian IT recruitment company covering the full spectrum of permanent, contract, temporary and outsourced IT recruitment across all business and government sectors and at all levels of seniority, nationwide. Our continued growth is driven by our core values of commitment, flexibility and quality.

Our clients choose us because we're easy to deal with, highly adaptable and totally professional. We do everything necessary to deliver the results you require and give you peace of mind.

Doing IT differently

You'll soon notice the difference in the way Infopeople works. We focus on your needs. We stress quality — of thinking, systems and candidates. We don't waste your time by giving you inappropriate CVs. Instead we quickly and effectively deliver a carefully chosen selection of the highest calibre IT professionals, truly worthy of your attention.

You benefit from working with our established teams — each with a strong mix of technical and business acumen, and a mission to give you more time each day by taking IT recruitment off your desk and on to theirs. We're constantly innovating to find ways to deliver the perfect solution to specific client problems and give you a better service. We continually develop our team's skills and working methods to ensure that our people do their very best for you. It enables them to find your ideal candidates quickly and efficiently.

By constantly moving forward, Infopeople is dedicated to maintaining its enviable position in the IT recruitment marketplace.
